NUMB. 1580

SATURDAY, JULY 12. 1740.

N<sup>o</sup> 1578.

Naples, June 18. N. S.

HE Chevalier Finocchietti a Native of Leghorn, who concluded the Treaty with the Turks, says in his Letters to this Court, that he wants Words to express the Civility of the Porte, who have treated him as they do the Ministers of the chief Crown'd Heads of Europe, and caref'd in short, to such a Degree, that the Envoys of Courts have taken Umbrage at it. The Grand Regency of Algier, Tunis, and Tripoli, include the like Treaty with his Sicilian Majesty: that if his Majesty desir'd it to be done at Constantinople, he would order those Regencies to send Deputies thither; but that, on the contrary, if he rather the Negotiation should be at Algier, Tunis, and Tripoli, his Highness would send his Plenipotentiaries thither, with the necessary Instructions to the Treaties to a happy Issue. The People are as much pleas'd at this last Treaty with the Turks, as they were before disgusted at the calling of the Jews.

July 5. N. S. Every body is pleas'd here to see Satisfaction and Harmony in the Royal Family particularly betwixt the King and the Queen his Consort; from which we promise ourselves his Reign to be mild and happy. The King takes Cognizance of every thing, and determines himself what shall be in the most important Affairs of Government. He is every day reviewing his Troops, out of which he selects the clearest Men to incorporate them in the Battalions of Guards that he is raising and which he is very handsomely equip'd. Another Regiment is actually raising for the Queen's Brother the Prince of Brunswick Wolfenbuttle, and he is to a Company in it consisting of 300 Men. The Prince is accordingly expected here forthwith, in a magnificent Apartment is actually sitting up for the Privy Counsellor Eckard, who was the late King's Secretary of State, and he is order'd as we hear to retire out of his Majesty's Dominions. After his Majesty's Coronation at Ingolstadt, which is to be on the 20th Instant, he is to make a Tour to Wesel, and to have an Interview by the Way with the King of Great Britain, very diverting to see how eager the tall Grenadiers that have obtain'd their Discharge are to take leave of their Friends and to return to their native Country.

July 5. N. S. Prince William Hyacinth of Nassau-Siegen has receiv'd an Express from Vienna, with News that on the 22d ult. his Imperial Majesty re-establish'd him in his Principality of Ansbach and other Dominions of Germany, administer'd before by the Prince of Nassau-Dietz.

July 21. Their Catholick Majesties, who had come hither with the Court on the 24th, deferr'd it, as 'tis said, upon Advice that the Dowager was relaps'd and absolutely at the point of Death; in which case their Majesties would be in Town, to avoid being fatigued with the Elements of Condolence, as well as the melancholy Noise of the Bells. The Duke de Montemar, who seems to be somewhat disgusted, desires Leave to go to the Post of Secretary at War provided he may have the Regiment of Spanish Guards, but 'tis said he will not obtain it. The Marquis de Villavieja, Secretary of State for foreign Affairs, may also be supplanted by Cardinal Molina, who is very often of the Council of Castile, and makes large Strides towards the Office of Prime Minister. Admiral Pintado may be his own Disgrace to his returning back with a Fleet into the Port of Ferrol when the Court order'd he was sail'd according to Orders.

IRELAND.

July 5. Last Saturday Capt. Mercer made a Voyage of a Sloop off Kinsale, loaded with Warlike Stores to the Value of 5000 l. On Sunday last as a Wherry with 20 Men, Women, and Children in it, was going down the River at Waterford, she ran on the Fluke of an Anchor, which struck thro' her Bottom, and she instantly fill'd with Water to the Gunwales; and they had all been lost, if it had not been for the immediate Assistance of the Boats of Ships next to them, on their hideous Cries and Screams.

Never were there seen so many Demonstrations of an universal Joy as on Tuesday last in this City, in Memory of the Battle of the Boyne, when the Great King William defeated the late King James and his Army. There was never Half the Number of Bonfires, Illuminations, Rockets, and Guns, both Great and Small, fired in this City in one Day and Night as was then, which lasted for odds of thirty Hours; the City seem'd to every one at a Distance to be in one entire Flame, Guns incessantly firing, and all the Bells likewise ringing. The Protestant Society made an extraordinary fine Appearance in their new Cloaths, and Orange Cockades in their Hats; and the Stewards, &c. had their Posts express'd in Gold Letters on their Cockades, and Gold Taffels hanging at them. As they went and returned from St. Catharine's Church to Sermon, and likewise in the Evening when they went to take down their Flag which was displayed on that Steeple, they were saluted with great Huzzas and loud Acclamations of vast Crowds of People, and by one continu'd Discharge of Guns over their Heads from the Houses as they went and returned: We cannot express the extraordinary fine Show all the Houses in the Earl of Meath's Liberty made on that Day, by having their Doors and Windows ornamented with Orange Lillies. The Society of Gardeners in Honour of the Day made likewise a fine Appearance, and walk'd to St. Paul's Church, and heard an excellent Sermon preach'd by the Rev. Mr. Motley, Curate of the said Parish, and had afterwards a splendid Dinner at the Lord Carteret's Head in Stoney Batter, where a great many Loyal Healths were drank, and Success to the British Arms by Sea and Land. The Parish of St. Michan's had likewise in Honour of the Day a fine New Flag display'd on their Church Steeple; and the Great Guns at our Barracks also in Honour of the Day, fired three Rounds.

Also Dr. Swift, D. S. P. D. from his great Love of Liberty, had the largest and finest Bonfire ever seen in this City, made of a thick Tree about 40 Foot high, (which was erected near the Watch-house in St. Kevin's Street, as being the broadest and most open Parr, to prevent the Flames reaching the Houses) with many Bars and Scaffolds, whereon were placed several Pitch and Tar-barrels: Round the Bottom of the Tree were large Quantities of Horse and other Animals Bones, cover'd with Fuze, strew'd over with Orange-coloured Flowers, which made a most beautiful Appearance: About nine in the Evening the Fire was lighted, which appeared like a burning Pyramid. The Dean gave a handsome Sum to the Populace to drink the Glorious and Immortal Memory of King William, who rescued these Kingdoms from Slavery and Arbitrary Power, which was drank with great Cheerfulness by all the People present, whose Number was very great, and the Night concluded with the greatest Demonstrations of Joy, and Expressions of Loyalty.

It is computed there were several thousand Bonfires on the Occasion, there being thirty-six in High Street alone; and notwithstanding these unexampled Rejoycings, there was not the least Mischief done. By the Letters of Yesterday's Post, we hear of the greatest Joy all over the Kingdom, upon this happy Occasion.

The same Evening, Capt. Latouche and nine Officers who had been at that Battle, and whose Ages made up above 750 Years, celebrated the Day with great Rejoycings.

On the DEAN's Bonfire, &c.

THE fickle Vulgar prostitute Applause,
As Passion prompts, unconscious of the Cause;
To Vice and Virtue equal Rites perform,
Led by the Motions of a sudden Storm.
By Cato warm'd, they kindle to be free,
Or, sooth'd by Julius, bend the willing Knee:
Now joy with Brutus o'er the Tyrant's Doom,
Then weep with Antony upon his Tomb.
Their Acclamations are in truth a Jest,
Or but a blind Idiotry at best.

But when the Wise and Virtuous add their Voice,
It gives a Sanction to the Publick Choice:
By Words or Signs their Approbations raise
Supplies to feed the Hero's growing Praile.
This perishable Pyle, bestow'd by Swire
To NASSAU's Honour, is a greater Gilt,
Than if a Senate its Decree should pass,
To bid him breathe in animated Brass.
No sordid Views the Breast of Swire could move;
And well might He the Godlike Man approve,
Well He, who taught a Nation to be Free,
Applaud that Hero who had restur'd Three.

The same Day we had full Markets of Corn and Cattle, which were all sold at Low Prices.

Yesterday the Lord Primate was at the Castle for the first Time since his Indisposition.

From Stockholm of July 2. N. S. That it has been determin'd in the Senate, that such as shall again propose the holding of an Extraordinary Dyet shall be deem'd Disturbers of the Publick Tranquillity, because as Matters are at present circumstanced there is no need for it; That they had Advice from Wexio in Smalaride, that Lightning fell on the 11th ult. up on the Tower of the principal Church there, by which that beautiful Structure which had stood above 900 Years was destroy'd together with the Bells, Clock, Organs, Library, and every thing in general belonging to that Church.

From Berlin of July 14. N. S. That his Majesty had declar'd Lieutenant General Count de Schwerin a Velt Marshal; That he has order'd a House to be erected there on purpose for Operas, and that the best Voices that can be pick'd up in Italy be sent for to perform in it, who are all to have Pensions; That his Majesty not only grants distinguish'd Protection to the Free Masons, but also has permitted Prince Augustus-William the eldest of his Brothers, Prince Charles of Brandenburg, the Duke of Holstein, and several other Lords and Gentlemen of his Court to enter into that Fraternity.

From the Hague of July 18. N. S. That the Report in some of the Publick News papers that the King of Spain was about to grant considerable Advantages to the Subjects of the States for their Navigation to the West Indies, was founded on a Mistake of False for Real Appearances of an Engagement for that Purpose; That Capt. Will. Trammers, Commander of a Dutch Ship who arriv'd some Days ago in the Texel from Carolina says, that the English had intercepted an Advice-boat which the Governor of Fort St. Augustin was sending to the Havana to demand Succours and that speedily, or else that he should be oblig'd to surrender to the English. The Captain adds, that as the Place was in Want of Provisions, and was block'd up on the Seaside by three Men of War, it was very probable that the English, who push'd on the Siege with a great deal of Vigor, were by this time Masters of the Place.
